NO. 64

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF KENTUCKY.

I am a candidate for the democratic nomination for the office of governor of Kentucky, to be filled at the general election in 1903.

When in June, 1899, you honored me with the nomination for attorney general, it was my fixed purpose never to again hold or seek office, but at the close of the term, to retire finally from public life. I was elected, but was not permitted to serve out my term.

The methods by which I was ousted have altered that purpose, and have impelled me to ask from my party redress, not only for the private wrong done to me, but for the public outrage perpetrated, through me, upon the law of the land and the honor of the State.

These methods must yet be fresh in the memory of the people, and I need to refer to them but briefly. After the vote was cast in 1899, the State Canvassing Board, whose duty it was simply to add together the election returns whether they were true or false, gave the certificates to the republican candidates. These returns were believed and indeed, known to be fraudulent and false. The democratic candidates instituted a contest, the candidates for governor before the Legislature, the candidates for the minor State offices before the contest board, these being the specific and only tribunals provided by law for the trial and determination of these issues. William Goebel was justly adjudged to have been duly elected governor of the State and shortly afterward was foully assassinated. Your candidates for the minor offices, upon full proof heard before the contest board, were likewise declared to have been legally elected. The republican incumbents defied this decision and refused to surrender the offices, and the democrats, invoking these, as they did throughout the whole of this turbulent period, only the peaceful remedies of the law, instituted suit for possession. These suits were adjudged in the Franklin circuit court in their favor. The republican defendants to these actions, all of them save only Judge Pratt, the candidate for attorney general, who apparently acquiesced in the decision of the lower court, appealed to the court of appeals. The controlling question to be decided was whether or not the contest board was a valid and constitutional tribunal. That question, it was known, had already been decided in the affirmative in separate judgments of our highest court, four of which had been delivered prior to the adoption of the present constitution and 12 since. It was the well settled law of the land. As was to have been expected, the same judgment was rendered on the appeals from the Franklin circuit court. The right seemed at last triumphant, and the democrats were installed in the offices to which they had been lawfully elected.

But Judge Pratt's acquiescence had only been seeming and conditional. There was a chance, in the surprise of popular elections, that the political complexion of the Court of Appeals might be changed. He bided his time, and his patience was rewarded. In 1900 Judge O'Rear was elected to succeed Judge Hazelrigg, and thus a majority of the Court was of the Republican faith. Then it was Judge Pratt discovered the Circuit Court to be in error, and then only he decided to appeal from its judgment. An appeal, withheld until this juncture, was of itself a reflection on this august court of last resort, but the reflection seems to have been entirely justified by the event. At any rate the law as it had so often been declared was set aside, the precedents of half a century were overturned, the Contest Board was declared to be unconstitutional, its action so far as my case was concerned a nullity, me a usurper, and Judge Pratt entitled to the office of Attorney General. I might easily have prologued the controversy and have clung to the office to the end of my term. But such a course would have been unseemly to one who did not, as I did not, value official position altogether for position's sake, to one who believed, as I did, in the exclusive jurisdiction of our State Courts over such matters, or

In one who entertained, as I did, an inviolable habit of obedience to the mandates, whether right or wrong, of the highest Court of my sovereign State. I preferred to surrender the office and I did so. I preferred to carry my appeal, not to the Federal Courts, not to bayonets nor to the law's proverbial delays, but straight to the Sovereign People, and I own that I shall be a proud and grateful man if the State, refused in my person by the builders, shall, in the generous righting of a wrong, be made the headstone of the Corner.

This, frankly, is the leading incentive to my candidacy. Yet I should be sorry to have it thought the only one. Apart from this I have the not ignoble ambition to become the Governor of my State. For more than a third of a century I have trained and fought loyally in the ranks of the Democratic party. I may even claim, without egotism, I trust, that I have rendered my country as well as my party some service. I shall not conceal that a vote of confidence and esteem from my party associates would, in the now closing years of my life, be most grateful to me. Protests as to what I should do or attempt to do, if honored by your nomination and election, would be idle if not ridiculous. The past is the only accepted sponsor for the future. If I have any honest zeal for the public good, if I am faithful to whatever trust may be reposed in me, if I have capacity for public affairs, if, in a word, I possess such qualities as fit me to be your candidate, my past life should vouch for them all. To that past, as to an open book, I beg to refer you.

Respectfully,
JOHN J. HRECKINRIDGE,

RICES EUBANK

Was born in Clark county, Ky., and spent the earlier part of his life on a farm, attending the country schools during the winter months. His parents died before he was 10 years of age, leaving him, for the most part, to direct his own course and earn a livelihood as best he might. In 1889 he entered school at Glasgow and after spending five months under the instruction of R. N. Roak he returned to his home county and began his professional career by teaching a district school and for several years he continued to teach and attend school until he graduated from the National Normal University at Lebanon, Ohio, with the B. S. and A. B. degrees. Having a desire to know more of the United States and the school work in the different States, he accepted a position in Vashon College at Huron, Wash., as teacher of the sciences and pedagogy or teachers' training. The following year he was located in California and was for two years dean of the department of the State Normal School at Ashland, Oregon. Leaving the Pacific coast, Mr. Eubank was engaged to school work in Minneapolis, Minnesota and also in the State of Montana. Returning to his native State he has had charge of Florida Normal College, Glasgow, Century College and Schools, Kuttawa, this State, Princeton College Institute at Princeton, which is a secondary school to Central University of Kentucky. He is at present superintendent of the Graded School here and offers himself as a candidate for the office of State superintendent of public instruction, subject to the action of the democratic party in 1903.

The Trip To Hopkinsville.

One of the most successful and instructive sessions of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky I. O. O. F. was the one just closed at Hopkinsville. Encouraging reports from all over the State show the order to be in a flourishing condition.

Our trip was a very pleasant one, having the pleasure of the company of a number of delegates from lodges in the southeastern part of the State. We arrived at Hopkinsville at 10 P. M., after having fooled our stomachs at Guthrie with a glass of water and tooth pick.

For Sheriff Baughman with a search warrant could not have found anything to eat. We were met at the depot by the reception committee and escorted to the hotel to which we were assigned. After a refreshing night's rest we were out bright and early to view the beautiful little city, whose gates had been thrown open to us by her hospitable citizens. Hopkinsville is truly an admirable town, composed of enterprising citizens who are true Kentuckians to the manner born.

At 9 A. M. Tuesday all the delegates met at the new Odd Fellows' hall, a handsome three story edifice and of which Green River Lodge should be proud, and marched to Holland's Opera House, headed by the Hopkinsville band, where an interesting program was rendered, the recitations of little Miss Corolla Parrot being exceptionally good. On the stage were seated Grand Master Cole, Past Grand Masters Morris, Gaunt, Reid and other past Grand Sires Durham and Underwood, Sovereign Grand Chaplain Rev. J. W. Venable, Rev. H. D. Smith and Mayor Joust Henry. After invocation by the sovereign grand chaplain, the keys of the city were formally turned over to Grand Lodge representatives. The remainder of the program was well rendered. The exercises were closed with benediction by the chaplain.

The Grand Lodge convened its annual session at 2 P. M. Tuesday and completed its work at 8 P. M. Wednesday. At 8 o'clock we again met at the lodge room to witness the crack team from Sturgis confer the initiatory, first, second and third degrees in royal style, after which we repaired to the banquet room below, where tables were laden with delicious edibles prepared by the good wives, daughters and sweethearts of the members of Green River Lodge No. 51. They deserve great credit for the feast prepared and the manner in which it was served.

The members of the Grand Lodge will ever hold a pleasant memory of their visit to Hopkinsville and their best wishes will be for the prosperity of Green River Lodge No. 51.

Of Shelby.

THE imports for woolen dress goods for American women and children during the last fiscal year amounted in value to $5,662,960 and the customs and duties to $5,805,453. That is to say one dollar and two cents was paid in duties at the custom house. By the time the goods passed through the hands of importer, jobber and retail dealer, the total increase in cost to American consumers was not less than 150 per cent. At the same time prices of domestic fabrics of the same qualities were enhanced in nearly equal proportions. Yet Secretary Shaw tells us there is no occasion for a revision of the tariff. But what say American women who are compelled to put up with the mixtures of shoddy and cotton because of the brutal duties on their woolen clothing?

THE mystery of the murder of Addison B. Chinn at Lexington was cleared up Wednesday by Earl Whitney making a confession, in which he acknowledged that he and Claude O'Brien had broken into Mr. Chinn's residence, but that O'Brien shot Mr. Chinn. The news that the confession had been made caused an angry mob to form. Extra guards were placed at the jail and Col. Roger Williams, under orders of Gov. Beckham, ordered two companies of militia. It becoming apparent that even with this force there was danger of an attack on the jail, officers, in accordance with County Judge Bullock's order, by a ruse, placed the criminals on a train and landed them safely in the Jefferson county jail.

THE Albany, N. Y., preacher who prayed fervently for $4,000 to lift the mortgage on his church, and then went to the postoffice and got a letter containing $4,000 sent to pay the debt, is the most fervent believer in the efficiency of prayer in the whole country. Churches in debt could afford to offer him a big price to pray for them.

POLITICAL.

Grover Cleveland says democracy is in order to increase its representation in the next Congress must stand by true democratic doctrines, the most important of which is tariff reform.

The Chicago Chronicle refers to it as the Louisville Post (Dem.) Such woeful ignorance is inexcusable. It would be much more correct to call it the Louisville Post (dem.)—Lexington Democrat.

MATRIMONIAL.

Huston Parks and Miss Margaret Kerns, both of Perryville, were married Wednesday.

Mr. Ed L. Dudderar, a valued employee of the L. & N. with headquarters at Birmingham, and Miss Mary Alpha Traylor, the handsome daughter of Mr. Alex Traylor, will be married in Louisville Oct. 23. Miss Eslee Warren, of Lebanon, and Mr. George Ray, of Birmingham, will be the attendants. Mr. Dudderar is a son of Col. and Mrs. W. H. Dudderar, of Rowland.

A wedding of great interest to many friends in Boyle and Lincoln counties was celebrated this morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Monte Fox on Lexington Avenue, when Mr. George Birk, of Owensboro, and Miss Dora Baughman, of Danville, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed at eleven o'clock, by Elder H.
C. Garrison, pastor of the Christian church. The parlor in which the wedding occurred was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The bride's gown was of white organdy and silk.
She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. Mr. John Baughman and Miss Katherine Baughman, of Stanford, stood up with the couple during the ceremony. The bride and groom left on the afternoon train for Louisville, where they will meet Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Sanders, of Owensboro, who were married in that city yesterday, the bride being formerly Miss Josie Birk, a cousin of Mr. George Birk. The two couples will go from Louisville to the East for their bridal tour. Miss Baughman is a sister of Mrs. Monte Fox, of Danville, and has a large connection in Boyle and Lincoln counties. She has been universally admired for many charming qualities, and will be greatly missed by many friends. Mr. Birk is a son of Mr. F. E. Burk, of Owensboro, and is a young business man of high character and reputation. Among those in the bridal party were Mrs. F. E. Birk and daughter, Miss Emma Birk, of Owensboro, mother and sister of the groom; Miss Mary Lane, of Winchester, and Miss Edna Baughman, of Hues-tonville.—Advocate.

The accomplished daughter of the late Mr.
Henry Baughman, of this place, and is a sister of Messrs. J. W. and H. C.
Baughman, of this county. She is a charming young lady and the young man who has won her is deserving of hearty congratulations.

mean?

Jack—Why she let me give her 10 lessons before she learned.

OCTOBER.

A shimmering haze hangs o'er the day,
The brown leaves fall;
A sound comes faint, as far away Some swain sings low a simple lay, A true love call.

And bravely 'gainst the coming storm
The dahlias stand.
Their blood-red blossoms showing warm Against the earth's green uniform, A sturdy band.

The sparrows sit at last in ease,
With ripe seeds filled, There comes murmuring from the trees Like languorous humming of the bees By distance stilled.

A soil of frost forebodes decay And dull heartache,
As nature slowly breathes away
Her life, o'er treasures for a day, But half awake.

Now Typhus lurks and all unseen His victim feels And foul miasms steal between The odorless winds, yet in the sheen Their poison dwells.

A painful feeling of unrest Is everywhere:
One asks not why this fills his breast, Nor why sad longings him invest,
And fill with care.

But soon familiar with the pain We heed it not,
And though we know it will remain We slowly take life's tasks again, Such is our lot.

Oh, dying year! Oh, aching heart!
These times must come.
Now ere the storm prepare thy chart, Take to thyself "the better part"
And sail for home.

Death of Little Albertie Mc-Whorter, of Middleburg.

It is with a deep sting of sorrow that I write you of the death of little Albertie McWhorter, only child of W. E. and B. W. McWhorter. Just as the Western hills hid the sun on the eve of Oct. 8, God shut out the light of the life of little Albertie. She was sick with teething and dysentery about four weeks and was reduced in flesh to a skeleton. She was an unusually bright, pretty child of two summers and the idol of her parents and relatives. She had very sweetly learned to lip the words "papa" and "mamma" and "pa" and "ma" to her grand parents. The following day she was laid to rest in the Middleburg cemetery after funeral services at the grave by J. Benton Ferrell, of the Baptist church. A beautiful yet unwelcome sight, was her little doll she called "Baby" laid in her arms in a snow white coffin. The hearts of her parents and relatives are crushed with this sore bereavement, but God makes no mistakes and doeth all things well.
But "let our hand forget its cunning and our tongue cleave to the roof of our mouth" if we forget the sweet voice, the pretty black eyes, the perfect form, the golden hair and the cute little ways she said and did things. O, for grace and fortitude to bear up under this deep affliction. A NEAR RELATIVE.

The United States geological survey shows how hazardous is the occupation of a coal miner. It recently published the figures of the loss of life in the coal mines for 1901. In the anthracite mines of Pennsylvania 513 men were killed and 1,243 injured; 277 wives were made widows and 624 children fatherless. Each 131,524 tons of coal mined cost a human life. In the bituminous fields of that State 301 men were killed and 650 injured; 194 wives were made widows and 412 children fatherless. Each 142,000 tons of soft coal mined cost a human life. The report, adds with the usual heartlessness of statistics: "The anthracite fields of Pennsylvania alone furnished the greatest number of killings in the Union." Certainly men who are subjected to such dangers deserve better wages and an honest measurement.

Although we write a band that rivales the Spenserian system in plain-ness, we will leave it to our readers if we are not the mildest mannered man living when we failed to murder the compositor and the proof reader who allowed "greater in their birth" to take the place of "quake in their boots." It takes great self restraint even yet, however, to let the rascal live.—Lexington Democrat.

State Inspector Hines has reported to Auditor Coulter that he has discovered a shortage of $934.30 in the accounts of W. G. Frazier, county clerk of Powell county. He also reports a shortage of J. M. Preston, former clerk of Johnson county, amounting to $402, and a shortage of $712 in the accounts of Jethro Preston, also a former clerk of Johnson county, and son of J.
M. Preston.

After suffering a broken neck and the displacement of all the ribs in his right side, William Hall, of Danville, Ill., walked to the street-car line, half a mile distant and rode to his home where he alighted without assistance and walked to his home, two squares away. A few seconds after the arrival of a doctor he expired.

The giraffe, armadillo and porcupine have no vocal cords, and are, therefore, mute. Whales and serpents are also voiceless.

When a woman is nervous her imaginations gives fantastic and threatening shapes to the most familiar objects. By day she starts in fear at every sudden or unfamiliar sound. By night the furniture of her room takes on affrighting forms of ghost or goblin.
You can't reason with the nerves. Neither logic nor love can quiet them.
They must be nourished and then the outcry of the nerves will cease as naturally as a hungry child ceases to cry when fed.

For nervous women there is no better tonic and nerve than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures the diseases which produce nervousness in women, irregularity, debilitating strains, inflammation, ulceration and female weakness. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite, and induces refreshing sleep.

"When I began taking your medicine I was not able to stand on my feet ten minutes at a time," writes Mrs. Mattie Borradaile, of 113 Spring Street, Nashville, Tenn. "I had falling of uterus, and kidney and liver disease, and was so weak and nervous I could not keep still.
Would take nervous spells and almost die at times. I had several different doctors attending, but they could not do me any good. The last one I had said I would never get up again.
Told him that I was taking your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and he said, 'Night just as well take that much water each day.' But I thought I would give the medicine a fair trial. Before I had finished the first two bottles I was able to get outside the house and walk around the yard. I kept on taking the medicines and they cured me."
